Hi Harold and Deborah--

Attached are emails and other documents in plaintiff's possession that are between herself and the defendants and pertain to defendant's grooming policies, plaintiff's job search following her termination, her massage therapy license and her taxes.

I did not get a request from Deborah for a conference for this afternoon, though I got Harold's offer of one for today or yesterday. I am open to a conference after we have all received the discovery documents and have any question.

Also, Harold, did you serve interrogatories on defendant Plus One and MacDonald?

Thanks

Dear Uwem: When I arrived at my office this afternoon, I received an envelope from your office containing Plaintiff's Responses to my clients' First set of Interrogatories and Notice to Produce, along with an accompanying CD. I had received your prior e-mails of February 6 and 7, 2008, containing plaintiff's responses to my clients' Combined Discovery demands, and Bates-stamped documents 1-184. I think that a conference call later this week between all counsel regarding discovery responses and deficiencies thereof would be productive. Might I suggest Thursday or Friday for such a conference? Please advise. Thanks.

Sincerely,

HAROLD J. DERSCHOWITZ, ESQ.

There are no rules about oral communications among counsel, particularly between co-defendants, nor am I going to create any. Harold now is aware of my request and, I am confident, will do whatever he concludes is in the best interests of his clients.

You did not e-mail any "bates-stamped documents" attachment to our clients' document requests. You did copy me on the e-mailed documents you sent in response to co-defendants' discovery requests. Until I receive what you represent you mailed last Monday, I cannot finalize the "deficiency letter" you have requested. Please keep in mind that a responding party is obligated to serve proper responses to discovery requests in the first instance.

Thank you.

Despite the cross-claims, at some point Harold must have communicated to you that he did not receive my package that I mailed to him. I was not privy to this call or email. If the defendants do not wish to speak me without all parties on the line and if this is the rule going forward. I also need to know if this applies to communications between all parties.

Deborah, did you receive the bates stamped documents I emailed to you. Also, when can I expect your deficiency letter.

Thank you

Neither Harold nor I have received the discovery responses and CD you said you mailed last Monday. While one package might conceivably go astray in regular mail, it is quite unlikely that both would if they were properly mailed.

Dear Jordan:

Yes, I had mentioned to you during our meeting last week that according to our interpretation of the dress and grooming standards, that your hair style was not in compliance.

I had also mentioned that some of the items listed on the dress and grooming standards were open to the decision of the managers of each facility based on their familiarity and knowledge of that particular contract.

On Monday, you expressed the desire to continue employment at the Trump World Tower and to wear a headband to keep your hair back. I stated that I thought this was a move in the right direction, but the final decision would rest again with your managers.

I had hoped that I provided enough time last week to answer all of your questions regarding this matter and that your paid day off on Monday would have provided the time for your to make your decision regarding these issues. Now that you are back on-site, I do not feel that continued negotiations on this issue are either appropriate or warranted.

We do not pay either straight pay or overtime for counseling sessions.

Subject: discrimination and harassment

Dear Chris,

When we met, I told you that I was being harassed and ridiculed because of the way my hair naturally looks and grows. You said that you would get back to me in regards to the situation. Please note that I haven't heard from you. Below are more details of the situation.

1. Jamie MacDonald, said that my hair was not 'normal', 'current' and 'inappropriate' to work in a place like Trump World Towers. He also said I did not comply with the hair policy because my hair was more than three inches above my head. (Please note that both Bob Welter and myself confirmed in fact that my hair was not more than three inches.)
2. Heather Davis said that my hair was 'shocking' and gave me an ultimatum that either I cut my hair or take a transfer to a new location. Hence, I sent an email to Bob Welter to request a meeting.
3. Bob Welter said he didn't like my hair because of the way it grows and sent me home for one day to figure out how to make it presentable to him.

The reason why I initiated these meetings was to alert human resources that I was being a victim of discrimination and harassment in regards to the initial way that Jamie embarrassed me in front of clients and an employee at the Trump World Tower site. Instead, human resources took this as an opportunity to continue the discrimination and say individually why they personally didn't like my hair.

They never fairly addressed the true issue with Jamie and his comments and now, their comments. Even in my meeting in with Bob Welter, we made an agreement that if I proved my hair was not more than 3 inches above my head, everything would be okay. After measuring my hair, he then did not honor our agreement and introduced a new issue: saying why he felt my hair was shocking and inappropriate.

I feel do not have any support from human resources and that they have added salt to my injury. Please be advised that this has me caused considerable emotional stress and is affecting my mental and emotional state, especially at work. Because of the undue humiliation I have been subjected to, I will not take any more meetings regarding my hair without my lawyer present.

Sincerely,

Jordan Mann

Mike,

I'm emailing you again because I am being singled out in respect to the grooming policy at Trump World Tower again. On his first day here, Christian Garcia, the new temporary site manager had a meeting with me and questioned me about my grooming, specifically my earrings. He provided an example that males are not allowed to wear earrings at reception. After speaking with co-workers, I found out that I was the only staff member questioned about grooming. Eventhough, other staff members have been violating policy well before I was employed at Trump World Tower and have continued to do such.

To date, no one at PlusOne has been able to give me a factual and/or objective statement as which rule I specifically violate with respect to the grooming policy. It is my hope that you investigate all the issues I have informed you of to date, to rectify these events.

Sincerely,
Jordan

Subject: response to your letter received in the mail

Dear Mike,

I recently received your letter in the mail addressed to "Mr. Jordan Mann." Please note that I am a female working at the Trump World Tower site. And like you said in your letter, there is confusion, as well as inequalities, with respect to me and my hair with your management and staff. On numerous occasions, they have stressed grooming examples, standards and hair lengths which they have only applied to Plus One males. Furthermore, it is my understanding that no policy states that women must not grow their hair past three inches, nor has any other non-Black woman ever been subjected to a hair length rule of this kind.

Please note that my attorney will fully address all the other issues with respect to your letter.

Sincerely,

Ms. Jordan Mann

Subject: Response to your email to me dated May 5, 2006

Dear Jordan,

Thanks for your e-mail. I am glad you wrote to me. I have decided, as President of Plus One, that your hair is acceptable for our business purposes.

Please understand that business purposes may vary depend on the site. What dress may be suitable in Soho or Chelsea may not be suitable at certain uptown locations. I myself dress and wear different clothes to some meetings than to others. Some may even change their hairstyle depending on the business purpose. Please appreciate that we conduct ourselves differently in some ways at your current site than we do in other sites, and we expect employees to appreciate the differences in the business climate at each of our sites.

As to your hairstyle though, it is acceptable in all of our sites. Some hairstyles are not, and we have taken action at your current location to ask some of our employees to change their hairstyle when working at that site. I personally regret that there was some confusion on our part with respect to your hairstyle, and you have my sincere apology.

That being said, I ask you to be sensitive to our business purposes, to wear a headband if you wish to, and to maintain your hair length at its current length if that suits your personal wishes. While the 3 inch hair rule is a fair and appropriate general guideline for that location, it will not be applied in your case or in any other instances where it is unsuitable to do so.

Jordan, I do not know whether your statement of events in the e-mails you forwarded to me is, or is not, accurate in all respects. But, it does not make a difference to my decision today, so there is no need for me to address those statements.

You have been a valuable employee of Plus One. I am sorry this matter has stressed you out, and understand why you feel that way. I hope that you will place this matter behind you as soon as possible so that you are free from extraneous concerns in the workplace. And do not hesitate to contact me if you feel that any others at Plus One have not placed this matter behind them as well, despite my direction to do so. Having spoken to Chris Ciatto about this matter, I can tell you that he and I are in complete agreement with respect to your hair. I will ask Chris to convey our decision and our philosophy on this matter to Jamie Macdonald as well. Finally, you may or may not know that Bob Welter has decided to resign as head of Human Resources, and I have asked Chris to discuss this matter with his replacement when hired.

Again, thanks for your e-mail, and keep up the good work. Also, a paper copy of this email will be sent to your home address.

Sincerely,
Mike

Dear Mike,

Below is an email I sent to Chris Ciatto. I originally met with him in early April about my situation but he never got back to me. As it stands, according to human resources, I will be terminated if I do not change my hair. Please note that my current hairstyle is an afro and has been such since my employment with PlusOne.

I'm sending this email to you as my last resort to rectify the discrimination and harassment to which I have been subjected.

Mike,

I've had a copy of the Trump standards since April 6. In addition, if you had investigated my allegations up to date, you would not have me deal with Chris Ciatto or Jamie MacDonald who were part of the discrimination/harassment. Chris asked me to "get braids" and "trim my hair" and questioned me as to why "no other Black women in the office have hair like" me. Also, Jamie was the first person at Plus One to start the harassment and discrimination by saying my hair was "not normal," "inappropriate" and that "Plus One did not make allowances for individuals" with hair like me.

The lack of investigation leads me to believe that PlusOne accepts and fosters an environment conducive for harassment and discrimination, when the perpetrator is part of management.

Sincerely,
Jordan

Jordan,
I apologize for the delay in my response and any misunderstanding that may have occurred regarding the grooming standards at Trump World.
To expedite the process and prevent too many emails from crossing each other, Chris Ciatto and Jamie Macdonald will work with you directly.
They will make sure that you have a written copy of the standards that we are required to maintain at Trump World.
They will also address any other questions that you have regarding these standards.

Mike
